

WENDY'S DECISION TO TAKE ACTION...

"After hearing speakers talk about the work United Way was doing in the community, including some of the work they were doing with vulnerable youth to help them finish high school, I thought, 'This is exactly the room I need to be in right now.' Completing high school is a big gateway into so many other things in life. That support is crucial to help kids realize their potential. If we can unleash that untapped potential in our community, the world's going to change."

CHANGED EMILY'S LIFE

"After I left my family home, I felt really overwhelmed by having to manage school and life. I was falling behind. I would get the bare minimum done and I missed so many assignments. My attendance record was bad. Then I connected with a United Way high school completion program and the staff really motivated me to want to be there. It's been very challenging, but it's definitely been worth it."
